

There are many ways you can volunteer with ILHS.

- We need help with special labor history events throughout the years.
- We need help at our “book tables” at union conventions and other meetings.
- You could also help us research a labor history topic for future educational programs.

We will work with you to find a volunteer experience that fits your schedule and engages your interests.

Reach out to us at ilaborhistory@gmail.com.

THANK YOU!

Thank you for your past support!

There is still time to renew your membership!

The Illinois Labor History Society's mission is reaching the next generation with labor's rich and vibrant history. You are vital as we work together to keep labor history alive, reaching students, workers, apprentices, academics, and the general public.

We're reaching out to you for support for the continuation of our 50-plus year history of activities, outreach, and programs. Your membership helps the Illinois Labor History Society protect important sites of labor history throughout our state and to provide quality labor education programs and outreach.

Your membership can help support the Illinois Labor History Society in many ways:

General Operations

Preserving the Haymarket Monument and other sites of labor history

Labor History Education for K-12 Students

Labor History Education for Union Members
